CHEER TEDDY

While Delegates Nominate Taft For President.

and Hisses Greet The Machine's Work.

Republican Put Through The Slate At Chicago.

ACK OF ENTHUSIASM MARKED.

With 15,000 spectators groaning and hissing and 702 delegates cheering themselves hoarse, the Republican National Convention nominated Wm. H. Taft for President of the United States.

The convention met at 10 o'clock and Taft was nominated seven hours later. From first to last it was a Roosevelt demonstration. When Ohio was called for its nomination the Taft men gave the signal and the delegates paraded through the hall. Two immense portraits of Secretary Taft were produced by Ohio delegates. Several State delegations stood on chairs and yelled. A little girl was hoisted on a delegate's shoulder and waved a Taft flag. The delegates yelled, but the spectators sat silent. Burton made his speech placing Taft in nomination. The delegates again paraded around. Then there were more speeches seconding the nomination. Frank Hanly, of Indiana, made a long talk for Fairbanks. He was jerked off the presiding officer's stand. When these preliminaries had been accomplished Lodge announced that the vote would be taken.

"Give Us Teddy."

Suddenly there was an uproar extending from one end to the other of the Coliseum. On the south end a man made his appearance waving a lithograph of Theodore Roosevelt. "Teddy, Teddy, give us Teddy."

The huge assembly caught up the cry. Delegates were pelted with paper balls from the galleries, shrieked at by women occupants, contemptuously referred to by men.

"Clear the galleries," shouted the delegates to Chairman Lodge. Lodge brought his gavel down on the presiding officer's desk. It could not be heard twenty feet off. The Roosevelt enthusiasm was in full swing. For nearly an hour it kept up, then there was a brief pause.

"The secretary will call for the vote of Alabama," announced Chairman Lodge.

"Alabama casts its twenty-two votes for Taft," came from J. O. Thompson, the Collector of Internal Revenue at Birmingham, and the spokesman of the delegation.

No Break in the Machine.

It was all over then and there. Taft was as good as nominated. There was not a break in the machine. Three uninstructed delegates from Pennsylvania voted for Roosevelt. "Good boy, good; that's what we want," came from the gallery. There were more cheers of Roosevelt. The machine resumed its work. Wyoming was called, voted for Taft, and the secretaries proceeded to foot up the total, and Chairman Lodge announced Taft nominated. The delegates cheered lustily enough, but the people in the galleries proceeded to get out of convention by the nearest exits. There was never at a national convention less enthusiasm for a winning candidate than was manifested toward Taft. Probably no man ever had occasion to be the recipient of the sincere, spontaneous expression of indorsement accorded to Roosevelt by the voters of his party—the men in the gallery.

NO BOOKMAKING AT LATONIA TRACK.

LEXINGTON, KY., June 19.—(Special)—The State Racing Commission, at a meeting here today, refused to allow the Latonia race track to return to the old system of book-making, and directed the sheriff of the county to see to it that no betting be allowed by that plan. The Commission decided that the Pari-mutuels are legal, and betting can be conducted by that system, but the bookmakers will not be allowed to do business. The Commission made a cut in the purses.

Governor Approves.

Acting Governor Cox says the State Government is ready to back up the Commission in trying to stop book-making at Latonia, and says that he approves of what was done by the Commission.

Floyd Byrd Quits Race For Congress.

A. Floyd Byrd, who has been the leading candidate for the Democratic nomination for Congress from the 10th district has withdrawn from the race. The reason assigned is that his private affairs demand so much of his attention that he has not time to make a canvass. He was the contending candidate for the nomination at the last convention and was thought to have the nomination assured this time. The other announced candidates are G. Lee Wainscott, a manufacturer of Winchester, and Judge Amos Davis, of Morgan county.

FEW GOVERNORS GO TO PRISON

To See How Convicts Are Treated and Fare.

Gov. Blackburn Set Precedent For Gov. Cox.

STORY OF PARDON OF A CRIPPLE.

They are telling stories now about Governor Blackburn, since Acting Governor Cox visited the penitentiary and talked to the convicts. It is said that Governor Blackburn used to do things like that, and that he was the only man who ever did it. He would go to the prison and see for himself how things were there, and he would talk to the convicts so that he could see how they looked. They tell a story about like this.

Three strong men were on their way from the depot to the penitentiary one morning, with a part of a man. The man had only one leg and one arm and one eye. He was not strong at best. A man stepped up to the guards and said:

"Does it take three men to take that poor cripple to the penitentiary?" Somewhat surlily the men said it did; that the law allowed them to get the fees for taking a convict to the prison and they intended getting it. They did not see, anyhow, what business it was of the man who was asking the questions.

"So you are willing to put your county to the additional expense, just because the law allows you to do it?" asked the man.

"We certainly are going to get all the fees that are coming to us," replied the guards. "What the devil business of yours is it?"

"Well, I am Gov. Blackburn and I have need for that man. You turn round now and take him back to the depot. I am going to set him free."

Gov. Blackburn, the man who had been asking the questions, then went back to the Governor's office and wrote out a pardon for the crippled prisoner. The man was released before the train back to his home town arrived, and he went back on the train with the men who had been his guards, but went as a free man.

ALL TO HOLD ON.

of Committees Will Lose Out

Under The New Rule Against Office-Holders.

Judge Hager Wrote In Clause Deciding Point.

MUCH MOOTED QUESTION SETTLED.

No member of the new Democratic Central and Executive Committees will lose his place on those committees by reason of office which he now holds, although, under the new rules, if he becomes a candidate for office, or accepts any office which is placed under the ban, he would forfeit his place on the committee to which he was elected. This is the construction placed on the new rules by Judge W. S. Hager, who was chairman of the committee on organization, which drafted the rules, and Judge Hager says it was the intention of the committee to make the rules so that no member of the committee would lose out by reason of the fact that he now holds office.

"From this date" is the clause which determines the whole thing and his was written into the rules by Judge Hager, after the rules had been typewritten and before they presented to the convention at Lexington. Here had been some discussion of how this clause got into the rules and the question has been asked several times, "who wrote that into the rules?" Judge Hager said yesterday that he wrote the clause in and did it at the instance of the committee which prepared the rules. The clause, "after this date," applies to members of the committee who may become candidates for office or who are appointed to office and says they are ineligible, but "after this date" comes in and prevents the rule from eliminating some six members of the two committees.

Judge Hager says that the first intention of the committee was to frame the rules so that no man who holds office can be a member of either of the committees or any county or city committee but many men appeared before the committee on organization and urged that the present members who had been elected under the old rules should be allowed to serve out their terms. The committee then changed its mind and decided that the rules would be so framed as to permit the present members to hold their places.

The rule works queerly. Thomas Combs, who is a member of the State Central Committee, is a State Senator. He can hold both places, but if, for instance, M. J. Meagher, who is also a member of the committee, should even run for the Legislature he would have to resign as a member of the State Committee. However, that is the party law.

The new rule against office holding has caused much discussion and it has been contended that under the rules six or more members of the committee would have to resign. Judge Hager, who, as chairman of the committee on organization, should know what the intention of the committee was, says that nobody will lose and that the members of the committee, as elected in Lexington, will hold their places.

Judge Hager says that a motion was made, in the committee, that members of the Legislature be exempted from disqualification in the rule against office holders, but this was voted down by the committee.

Teachers Send Out Thousands Of Cards.

SOUVENIR POSTALS OF FRANKFORT.

Souvenir postal cards have gone out of Frankfort by the thousands this week. The Kentucky Educational Association has been holding its meetings here and the teachers have been working the souvenir postals over time. There are so many things in Frankfort which work up well in souvenir postal cards. Frankfort's drug stores and many other places keep a big supply, but they were almost bought out by the teachers. The old State house and the new capitol were the favorites, and there was a strong demand for cards, showing these places. Scenes connected with the killing of William Goebel are also popular on account of the pardoning of Powers and Howard, and the cards almost swamped the men in the postoffice. The teachers came here in force and they were out for a good time, mainly, also they wanted to communicate with friends at home and the postal cards were easy.

SOLDIERS SHOOT.

Repulse Attack By Night Riders In Bracken.

MAJOR WEBB BELIEVES ONE OR MORE MEN WERE WOUNDED IN FIGHT.

Several night riders may have been wounded and a body of them was repulsed by the soldiers in an attack which was made on the house of Louis Kinney, in Bracken county, in which against the night riders. The soldiers who were on guard at Kinney's house fired several volleys at the riders and it is believed that several were badly wounded and carried off by their comrades.

The news of the clash between the soldiers and the night riders came to Frankfort in a report from Major Webb, who is in command of the soldiers now on duty in Bracken county. Maj. Webb said in his report that a band of men went to Kinney's house about midnight and attempted to take him from his home.

They never had a chance to carry out their intentions, as the soldiers who have been guarding Kinney's home, in anticipation of an attack on him, promptly began shooting as soon as they saw the night riders, who fled. Major Webb says he has reason to believe that the bullets fired by the soldiers found human marks.

Louis Kinney is a brother of the prosecuting attorney in Bracken county and has made a determined effort to bring to justice the men who have been raiding in Bracken county. Kinney says that he will tell the next grand jury the names of many men who have been on raids with the night riders and believes that he has sufficient evidence to convict every man. Kinney recently was whipped by a band of the night riders.

Excitement in Shelby.

Residents of the Jacksonville neighborhood, in Shelby county, near the Franklin county line, where Newton Hazlett was killed several weeks ago, are much excited and it is feared that serious trouble may result. There were found on the front porch of Wm. Thompson, a son of Col. W. E. Thompson, a prominent member of the Burley Tobacco Society, a box of matches, a bottle of poison and a bundle of switches. A note said that Thompson had better leave within ten days or suffer the consequences. The note was signed "L. and O. L., the initials of the Law and Order League. It is feared that there may be a mild sort of civil war in that neighborhood. Troops are still on duty in that section.

Miss Mary Timberlake, of Winchester came Thursday to spend the summer with Mr. Wm. H. Hoge and family.

TAFT'S DESIRES

Were The Ernst Should Be Beaten.

Was Opposed To Him As National Committeeman.

Democrats May Agree in Congressional Race.

POLITICAL GOSSIP IN LOUISVILLE.

(Special Correspondence.)

LOUISVILLE, KY., June 18.—It must have been a rude awakening for Richard P. Ernst, of Covington, when he went to Chicago and found that the rollers had been nicely adjusted by a certain faction of his Republican brethren, and that it was being planned to shunt him into oblivion. He went up there fully expecting to be advanced to the Republican Sanhedrim, otherwise the Republican National Committee. It looked like a cinch during the State convention in Louisville. It looked like a cinch up to the time the committee met in Chicago with Frank Fisher, the Paducah Postmaster, went with a committeeman bee in his bonnet. It just happens that I was wise to the silliness of the affair a few days before the public was expected to know about it. It amused me considerably to see the claims of Mr. Ernst that Hitchcock was for him; that he was going to tell Hitchcock on Mr. Fisher if Frank didn't quit opposing him and that he would appeal to his friends, Charley and Bill Taft, if he wasn't elected forthwith. It was these things "that were to laugh." As a matter of fact, Hitchcock was for Fisher all the time. I also have it from the inside that Mr. Taft, THE Mr. Taft, was against Mr. Ernst. I was not told why he was against Mr. Ernst but more than a week ago I was told that it was Mr. Taft's desire that Mr. Ernst not be elected committeeman from Kentucky. Senator-elect Bradley was also against Ernst. Mr. Bradley and Judge Burnam, who gathered in the grapes, were not on the very best of terms, it will be remembered, so I am unable to figure it out whether the new Senator would regard the outcome as a victory or not. I am inclined to believe that the joy at defeating Ernst is more than compensation for the election of Judge Burnam.

I understand that nothing will be done in Louisville about nominating for Congress in this district until after the national convention. There are two candidates, Swagar Sherley and Herman Newcomb, the latter well and favorably known to the citizens of Frankfort by reason of his having been a member of the Legislature for two terms. I am inclined to believe from what I hear that an effort will be made to get one or the other to retire from the race and leave the field free to the other. In the general harmony scheme this would be a most desirable consummation. I am afraid if the two engage in a primary or a convention it would be bitterly fought and would do the party in this district no particular good. I also believe that both the candidates recognize this and that they will lend themselves to reason.

The Hon. Henry R. Prewitt, Chairman of the Democratic State Central and Executive Committees, was in Louisville this week and announced that he would call his committees together after the national convention and prepare for the coming campaign by the election of a campaign committee. The committees will meet in Louisville and permanent headquarters will be selected, probably in this city. Mr. Prewitt is very sanguine of the success of the party this fall and his sentiments are heartily agreed with by the Democrats in Louisville. The Democrats of this city, by the way, are going to the Denver convention in force. It is likely that several hundred will be on the special train out of this city. They are going to shout for W. J. Bryan and enthrone over him and they are coming back to put some of their enthusiasm in their fellow Democrats who are compelled to stay at home.

National Committeeman Urey Woodson, when he passed through Louisville this week for Chicago, said it was a shame that Ollie James, the big First District Congressman, had tied himself up so that he couldn't accept the temporary chairmanship of the Democratic National Convention at Denver. Ollie could have the place if he would only give the word. He refused the honor, as a matter of fact, when it was offered to him, saying he had committed himself to Henry D. Clayton, of Alabama. There is some talk of making Ollie permanent chairman, and this may be done. Kentucky will loom largely in the Denver convention, showing up in great contrast with the delegation from this State to Chicago, where every one was at every other member's throat.

It's pretty early to talk about nominees for Mayor in Louisville, but I see that a Democratic club down in the Eleventh ward has indorsed Owen Tyler for the nomination a year hence.

INSIDER.

NAME SHERMAN FOR VICE-PRESIDENT.

Republican Convention Makes Quick Work.

Selects New York Congressman On First Ballot.

RESULT NEVER IN ANY DOUBT.

It will be Taft and Sherman. Congressman James S. Sherman, of New York, was nominated as the Republican candidate for Vice-President, by the Republican National Convention in Chicago. The nomination was made on the first ballot, and there was no question as to the result when the balloting began. Mr. Sherman was put in nomination by Timothy Woodruff.

The allies plead for one crumb and were solidly in favor of the nomination of Representative Sherman for the Vice-Presidency. They told the Taft leaders that the nomination of the New York man would strengthen the ticket, heal some of the bruises inflicted by the Hitchcock machine, and insure the electoral vote of the Empire State to the Republican party.

The New York delegation met on Thursday and indorsed Sherman. The States of most of the allies did the same thing.

Sherman was the only avowed candidate for the place. He was supported by Cannon, Payne, Dalzell and the House organization and every other Republican member of Congress in Chicago.

GOVERNOR GOES TO BOSTON.

Gov. Augustus Willson and Mrs. Willson left Sunday night for Chicago, where the governor will attend the National Republican Convention, after which the governor will go to Boston to attend the closing exercises of Harvard, of which university Gov. Willson was graduated thirty-nine years ago. He and Mrs. Willson will be the guests of President Eliot and Mrs. Eliot of Harvard, and will be entertained by them. One of the features of the closing exercises will be the conferring of the degree of LL. D. on Governor Willson.

Rev. J. W. Harvey, the noted evangelist of Crayton, Ky., began a revival service at the Bellepoint Chapel last evening at 8 o'clock, which will continue during the next ten days.

WOUND FATAL.

Former Frankfort Man Killed
At Louisville.

Luther Norwood Shot By a Patrolman.

Father On Police Force Here For Years.

TROUBLE OVER ARREST OF GIRL.

When the train from Louisville stopped at the station here Tuesday morning a broad pine box was taken from the baggage car and a hearse was waiting to convey the box, with the still form inside, to the cemetery. Luther Norwood had come back home. But his home-coming was different from what he had expected. Instead of joy his home-coming brought only sadness for the form inside that box was what had been a living man, young and active, but now the body was still and only the mortal flesh remained.

Luther Norwood was shot and killed in Louisville Saturday night during a fight with Patrolman Con Wickham. Joseph Norwood, his father, was bruised and battered by the club which the patrolman used. Both men formerly lived in Frankfort, where Joseph Norwood was a member of the police force for many years. Young Norwood's body was buried here Tuesday. The following story of the tragedy was given in the Courier-Journal of Sunday:

As the result of an attack on Patrolman Con. Wickham last midnight, said to have been made by Luther Norwood and others in front of Dave Reed's saloon, 141 East Jefferson street, Norwood was shot in the abdomen by the patrolman and will likely die; his father, Joseph Norwood, was badly bruised about the head and Patrolman Wickham was badly beaten about the head with pistols and other weapons.

It is alleged that the row was the result of Patrolman Wickham arresting Ethel Smith in the afternoon on the charge of disorderly conduct, who is a sweetheart of Luther Norwood. She was afterwards released from jail.

Last night as Patrolman Wickham was walking along the street, Norwood, it is said, approached him and began to upbraid him for arresting the woman. Patrolman Wickham told Norwood he was under arrest. Then, it is said, Norwood attacked the patrolman. They had not scuffled long before the father, Joseph Norwood, came along and got into the fracas. K. Simons and other bystanders soon joined in.

While being beaten over the head with pistols and clubs Patrolman Wickham drew his revolver and shot Luther Norwood in the abdomen. Several shots were fired, and one shot went through Patrolman Wickham's coat. Patrolman McCue came up and joined in the fight, striking left and right with his club.

When the fighting ceased it was found that Patrolman Wickham was badly beaten about the head. He was taken to his home, 619 West Market street.

Joseph Norwood, who lives at 431 East Chestnut street, was bruised about the head and body. He and his son were taken to the City Hospital, where Luther Norwood was operated on.

K. Simons, who tried to help the patrolman, was badly hurt, being struck by a stick. Luther Norwood is 37 years of age and lives on Market street, between Clay and Shelby streets. Both he and his father are detained at the City Hospital on the charge of malicious assault.

Bids For Power House

Opened On July 10.

Advertisements have been ordered for bids for the construction of the new powerhouse in connection with the new Capitol, and also for the laying out of the grounds around the building. The bids will be opened on July 10 at the Governor's office. It is expected that the powerhouse will cost about $60,000. The Capitol Commission met this afternoon and ordered the advertisements printed.

Those who have given our printing a trial have been pleased and gratified. Some of our customers say it is the best printing done in the city—the best they have ever received.

Venerable Jurist

Confined To His Bed.

JUDGE W. S. PRYOR SUFFERS ATTACK OF INDIGESTION AT HIS HOME.

Judge William S. Pryor, former Chief Justice of the State of Kentucky and one of the most noted lawyers in the South, is confined to his bed at his home near Eminence, suffering from acute indigestion. Although his physicians do not think there is any need for his confinement on account of the Judge's present illness, the venerable jurist is rounded up his eightieth year, and on account of his age physicians fear another attack may take a turn for a serious nature.

PARDON SEEKERS

Keep Acting Governor Cox Busy All The Time.

WOMAN WITH BABY IN HER ARMS SECURES FREEDOM FOR HUSBAND.

As is the custom when the Governor leaves the State a crowd of pardon seekers descended upon Frankfort to-day. Acting Gov. Cox is presiding in the Governor's chair, and for some reason the Lieutenant Governor is supposed to be more tender-hearted than the Governor. When W. O. Bradley was Governor and W. J. Worthington was Lieutenant Governor, he was always besieged by applicants for pardon wherever the Governor left the State. It is pretty much the same way now.

With a baby in her arms getting its dinner at the parental breast, a woman walked into the Governor's office, seeking a pardon for her husband, and she went away with the pardon. The woman was Mrs. T. J. Hash, and her husband was in the penitentiary, having been convicted on a charge of manslaughter and sentenced to confinement for a period of two years. He was convicted of the killing of J. Dan Nelson, in Laramie county. He has been in the penitentiary only a short time. With Mrs. Hash were Senator Greenwood A. Taylor and several others, who are interested in the convicted man. They marched into the Governor's office and presented their side of the case, urging that a pardon be granted. The woman was carrying her baby and the whole party made an affective plea for executive clemency, the baby not being the least important of the pleaders.

Kentucky Thoroughbreds Shipped To England.

JAS. R. KEENE SENDS OVER BUNCH OF WELL BRED YOUNG-STERS.

James R. Keene has shipped from his Castleton stud, near Lexington, to New York, twenty thoroughbred yearlings, which, it is understood here, will be placed on shipboard next Saturday to be sent to England where they will either be sold or raced by his son, Foxhall Keene, who spends most of his time in that country.

This consignment of yearlings, will be an important addition to the English turf, as it will be an introduction to Great Britain of the blood which has in recent years produced Collin, Celt, Ballot, Peter Pan, Electioneer and others, which have swept before them all in this country, and it will be interesting to note how the Castleton-bred horses, which have been so successful in America, will rank with the best horses of England. While it is true that Mr. Keene several years ago won the English Oaks with Cap and Bells, and the $50,000 Princess of Wales Stakes with Disguise, these horses were sent over at the end of their 2-year-old form, and this will be the first time any considerable number of Castleton-bred horses have been sent abroad as yearlings, which will give them an opportunity to become acclimated before they are called upon to race. Disguise, who won the Princess of Wales Stakes for Mr. Keene, was returned to Castleton, and some of the yearlings which will be shipped tomorrow are by him.

We would like to show you our superb line of up to date samples of modern printing.

LES MISERABLES

Lined Up Before Governor To Tell Their Tales.

PARDONS WILL BE OF MAYE BEEN GIVEN MANY MAIMED AND CRIPPLED.

As a result of the visit to the penitentiary by acting Gov. Cox, it is certain that many pardons will be granted and there will be a general cleaning up of the prison of men who are incapacitated or who have been in the prison many years with a good, clean record. Gov. Cox went through the prison and was in the hospital where the cripples are located. It was the first time in many years that a Governor of the State has been through the grim prison, and the first time in the memory of the oldest guard that the Governor ever went among the men and talked to them about their cases and the reasons why they wanted pardons.

The Governor stayed in the prison for three hours. He found about thirty-five men, one-legged, one-armed other diseases, and it is almost certain that as the result of the trip through the penitentiary many of these men will be allowed to go free to their homes. It will be one of the most remarkable things in the history of Kentucky, and something that few Governors would dare do, but the prison officials say that it should be done, as the men are a useless expense on the State.

Harry Miles, a negro sent from Louisville, got his freedom, as Gov. Cox told him that if he lived until tomorrow he would certainly pardon him. Miles has been in the penitentiary for twenty-five years, having been sent up under the habitual criminal act on the third conviction for stealing. His record in the prison is excellent, with not a mark against him.

When the Governor went to the prison he asked that all the cripples and incapables be brought before him. There were some thirty of them, and the men were lined up in the yard. The Governor stood in front of them, and as Warden Mudd called each man's name that man stepped forward and whispered to the Governor his story of why he wanted a pardon and why he thought he ought to go free. Each man had his say, and while this was going on the other convicts were watching and trying to get in their say with the Governor, all being eager to tell their tales to the man who could release them. The Governor heard only the cripples and incapables, some of whom were blind, but he did let Mays have his say.

In the hospital the Governor found one man who had sat in the same chair every day for two years and never had been able to move from the room. Several men who are dying of consumption were also found.

After the Governor had been through the prison the prison band was brought out and the crack negro cakewalkers among the convicts did stunts for the benefit of the Governor and the visitors.

The Lawmakers defeated the Distillers here Wednesday afternoon after ten innings of the poorest exhibition of the National game ever witnessed at the local park. The Frankfort boys started off playing big league ball, having sent Reed to the tall and uncut in the second ending. Cornell, who was on the firing line for the Lawmakers, was in the pink of condition and not a Distiller had reached first up to the time he injured his finger at the bat, and it was the universal opinion that had he been able to finish the game, the score would have been Frankfort 9 and the Lawrenceburgs 0.

Right here is where Capt. Nell made a grave mistake by sending in McFarland to take the place of Cornell, and should have lost the game. McFarland did the best he could, but he could do nothing, and finally Capt. Nell had to get the hook and send "Little Dick" in to save the game.

A few more "stunts" like the one pulled off by the Captain of the Lawmakers Wednesday will most certainly cut a big hole in the gate receipts in the future. When Cornell was injured and forced out of the game, instead of putting either "Little Dick" Crutcher or "Rusty" Wright in, the Captain placed McFarland in the box, and what the Distillers did to him was good and plenty. While McFarland has been a good pitcher in his day, but he has not been in the box for years and as a matter of fact was a little "rusty." The fans are taking more interest in the game this season than they ever did before, and are attending each and every game in large numbers, even the week days, and the kicks that were heard Wednesday would make a book three feet thick. If the Lawmakers had no one else to pitch, there would have not been a murmur, but as there were two twirlers, either one of whom can make monkeys out of the Distillers 9 out of every ten games. This kind of treatment don't suit the public, and inasmuch as the fans of Frankfort are the ones that support the club they should by all means receive better treatment. The people pay to see a ball game and they are entitled to see one, and the sooner the managers realize as much they will be much better off financially.

Lets wake up and make Frankfort the best base ball town in the State, but we can't do this by such breaks as the Captain made Wednesday. Can't child play out and play big league ball.

Clarence Allison has been made Captain of the Lawmakers, and if the managers don't "butt in" too much we believe that he will shortly have one of the best teams in the State. "Nibs" certainly knows the game and says he is sure to land the pennant for Frankfort. Just as soon as he is able to get back in the game he says he intends to have the boys to practice at every opportunity and to take the necessary exercise. We believe this is one of the wisest things that Kennedy's sluggers have done this season and feel confident that they will have no cause to regret their action.

Perhaps the hardest fought game of the season will take place Sunday afternoon at Glenwood Park between the Pioneers of Richmond and the Lawmakers of this city. Both teams are out for blood and have added new material to their clubs and it will be a battle royal from the time "Tommy Gaine" yells "play ball" until the last half of the ninth ending. From all indications the crowd will be a record breaker, as a big bunch will come down from Richmond and the surrounding towns will contribute many fans. The Captain of the Lawmakers is getting his men in the pink of condition and says that he will win the game with all ease. Following is the line up for the game:

Frankfort	Lawrenceburg
Leo Angermeyer, C.	Gailther
Cornell	P. Sommers
Chapman	B. Kelly
Steele	B. Geary
Weihe	B. Hannigan
Allison	S. S. Reed
L. Angermeyer	L. F. Satterwhite
Wright	C. F. Searcy
Crutcher	R. F. Gilbert

Several of the fans of this city have at last decided to help the managers of the Lawmakers by subscribing money to defray the expense of employing some new men. This is the right step in the right direction, and the fans should not fail to respond when the collector calls. We are compelled to have some new material if we want to win the pennant. All the other clubs in the Blue Grass League are sparing no expense to strengthen their team, and from now on until the season closes each and every game will be hotly contested. The Capital of the State should win the prize, and if the lovers of the game will only rally to the support of our home boys, we can and will come out with banners flying.

The City and County officials will shortly cross bats with State officials at the local park. The proceeds of the game will be donated to the Kings Daughters Hospital. This will probably be one of the most interesting games of the season, as some of the most prominent men in the city will take part. Capt. Jackson Morris, of the State House team has not gotten his line up as yet, but it is certain that Lieut. Governor Cox will be in the game. Capt. Polsgrove of the City and County bunch has a strong team picked out, which includes Ben Marshall, Frank M. Dalley, Ed Pierce, R. C. Hieatt, George McDonald, J. Walter Jeffers, W. L. Crutcher, Geo. Conway, J. F. Dolan, George T. Davis, Emerson Flynn, Dr. J. G. South and Morgan Brawner.

The Thoroughbreds are to play Frankfort Tuesday and Manager Sheets is trying to get the boys from Frankfort to come to Lexington on that date to play, although the game is scheduled to be played at the Capitol.

As this is the only league game here next week, Manager Kennedy will insist on the Lexington bunch coming here on Tuesday.

The postoffice boys have organized a ball team in order to challenge the members of the State House and City Club, which will shortly be organized. The lineup is as follows: Captain and manager, J. C. Smith, p; Gibbs, ss; Williams, 2b; Jackson, 3b; Crockett, cf; Church, lf. Substitutes—Showalter, Thompson, Phillips, Rogers, Hallett and Hecken-smith, Lovely, mascot.

The Lawmakers trimmed the Versailles bunch Sunday to the tune of 9 to 2 on the local diamond. "Little Dick" Crutcher had the visitors guessing at all stages of the game, while Doyle of the Aristocrats was hit at will. After five endings Doyle was yanked out and Haag was substituted, and he held the Lawmakers down the rest of the game. This was the sixth straight game that Frankfort has defeated the Versailles gang.

The game between the Lawmakers and the Distillers was more of a rough and tumble "hurt and get hurt" affair than a ball game usually is, though the game was hard fought and good to the very last of the tenth inning. Cornell got his finger mashed, Weihe took the "blind staggers," "Nibs" Allison had several bad boils, Crutcher got his arm injured by a pitched ball, Reed played off third and got hit in the back, and a number of players were struck by pitched balls.

The Shelbyvilles defeated the Lexington team Wednesday at Shelbyville to the tune of 3 to 2 in a ten ending game. Batteries—Shelbyville, Owen and Long; Lexington, Sumner and Fry. Hits—Shelbyville, 11; Lexington, 3. Long made a home run. Shelbyville has been strengthened by the following players: Krahner, shortstop; Varnados, third base; Horning, second base; Kuhn, first base; Long and Hemphill.

Chapman, of Cincinnati, is here to play first base, and he will probably cover that bag the rest of the season for the Lawmakers. He is without a doubt one of the best first sackers in the country and his bating eye is not bad by a long shot. Chapman will tighten up our team a great deal, and we should beat the Richmond team two to one on next Sunday afternoon.

Chapman, our new first sacker, added greatly to the club, and we believe that we have now the best bunch of players in the entire league. With Chapman at first, Steele at second, Weihe at third and Allison at short, our infield is certainly there with the goods, and if we can only keep this bunch together until the season closes, its a cinch that we will land at the top of the Blue Grass League.

Sunday week the Shelbyville boys will be here with about two hundred rooters, and as these boys have gotten a lot of new men from the minor clubs of Louisville, they expect to take the Lawmakers into camp with ease.

The crack Richmond team went down to defeat at the hands of the Shelbyville boys Thursday afternoon at Shelbyville, to the tune of 7 to 2. The defeat of the Pioneers forces the Lawmakers back into first place, where they rightfully belong.

Poor old Versailles suffered another defeat Thursday at their home grounds by the Lawrenceburg boys, by a score of 3 to 2.

Arthur Long, who has been playing in the Southern League this season, and who had written here to get a place on our team, has thrown us down and signed with the Shelbyville club.

The managers telegraphed to Cincinnati yesterday for a crack right fielder and he is expected here for Sunday's game with Richmond.

EXPERIMENT STATION PRESENTS REPRESENTATIVE WITH FINE CALF.

Benjamin H. Hunnicutt, Director da Escola Agricola, Lavras, Minas, Brazil, and Donata Aadrade, Oliveira, Minas, Brazil, and Sr. Achilles Moraes, of Minas, Brazil, have been in Lexington for a few days past on their mission from Brazil to this country to buy horses, cattle, and hogs. They have made some purchases. At the Experiment Station Mr. Hunnicutt bought for the Agricultural College of the Brazilian State, Minas, one of the finest Jersey calves at the farm. Professor Scovill presented to the College with the compliments of the Experiment Station another very fine Jersey calf.

This calf will probably be named "Imperador." He is out of Valentine Alice by Eminent Lad, which shows the fine strain from which he comes. Another purchase was also made of a splendid two-year-old jack, a prize winner last year, and a jennet. For the past few days these gentlemen have been visiting numerous stock farms in the Blue Grass and are still looking for some stallions of saddle breed. The party went to Elmdorf on Tuesday and Wednesday to Shelbyville and Eminence, Thursday to Louisville, Friday to Nashville, and on to Mississippi and Georgia, which latter State is the home of Mr. Hunnicutt.

"We are authorized to announce J. CAMPBELL CANTRILL, of Scott county, as a candidate for Congress, subject to the Democratic convention, September 3.

We are authorized to announce W. P. KIMBALL, of Fayette county, as a candidate for re-election to Congress from the 7th Congressional District, subject to the action of the Democratic Convention, September 3.

This office showed last Saturday how well equipped it is for rush work and there is not another newspaper office in this State, outside of Louisville, where the task of getting out an extra could have been handled any more rapidly. The decision in the Powers and Howard cases was handed down at 8:35. In one hour and fifteen minutes the News had out an extra, giving not only the decision, but many additional facts. The movements of Howard, the details of his release from the prison, how he purchased his suit of clothes and something about his plans, were given. The Governor's reasons for pardoning the two men were also given and every phase of the situation was covered briefly. All this was done after the decision was announced. One page of type was set up and put into the forms, after the decision was announced. Three linotype machines were put to work as soon as the Governor announced his decision. This matter, being all fresh and live news, had to be set, the proofs corrected and the type put into the forms and then the paper printed. This was done so quickly that the News was the first paper in the United States to give the details of the pardons, the reasons for it and to record the actual release of Powers and Howard.

Several papers, one in Lexington and another in Louisville, had extras on the streets within five minutes after the decision was known to them but these papers were printed the night before, or a plate had already been cast so that the papers could be run off immediately. These extras had nothing in them except a bare announcement that the pardons had been issued. One could read the big headlines and get all that was in the paper in two seconds. These extras contained nothing about why the Governor issued the pardons or gave any of the news which the people wanted. A bulletin pasted on the front window would have served the same purpose as those extras. One paper went so far as to cast two plates, one stating that the pardons had been issued and the other that they had been refused. The correct plate was put on the press and run off, but the people wanted to know what Howard did and a whole lot of other things which they got in the News extra but did not get in the other extras. A Lexington paper sent extras down to Frankfort but they were half an hour late and Frankfort people had already read an extra that was issued in Frankfort by a Frankfort paper.

Excuse all this crowing but we want Frankfort people to understand that Frankfort has a paper which is up-to-date and which can handle a big news story as quickly as any paper in the State, even if it is a weekly.

The expected happened. Nobody in Frankfort, or in the State, for that matter, had any doubt about Powers and Howard being pardoned. We believe that Gov. Willson was conscientious in what he did. We do not hold, with many others, that he had his mind made up from the first, and that the reading of the records was a blind. We believe, and have good reason to believe, that the Governor made his decision only after he had investigated the cases and issued the pardons only because he believed that the men were innocent. We do not believe that pressure had any effect on him, except to unconsciously influence his mind.

The trouble is that the Republican party has defended the men accused of the murder of Goebel. This action was not as individuals but as a party and we happen to know that the men in the internal revenue service were assessed three times, for a fund with which to defend Caleb Powers. Henry Youtsey was defended, when he was put on trial for the murder, just as Powers and Howard were defended. It was insisted with vigor that he was innocent and Judge Cantrill was denounced for his conduct of that trial. Now they are saying Youtsey alone did it and are making him the scapegoat. But when he was accused and on trial, the Republican party, as a party, defended him and did everything possible to have him acquitted.

The reading public would gladly bear the last of Powers and Howard and hopes that, now they have been pardoned, the cases will end and the two men will cease to be in the public eye. The public is tired of reading about them, at least the Kentucky public is and it is earnestly hoped that their movements will not be bulletined unless they do something that is really news.

Acting Governor William H. Cox did an unusual thing the other day when he went to the penitentiary and lined up the cripples, or they should be called Les Miserables, and gave them a chance to tell their stories to the Governor. These men, two of whom are blind, have no friends to seek pardons for them and have been put to one side, even in the prison. Many of them should be pardoned. A blind man should not be kept in prison, except under unusual circumstances. Gov. Cox showed the proper spirit and also displayed considerable courage in doing what he did. The result of his visit will be better discipline in the penitentiary and the convicts will feel that there is a man who watches their conduct and will reward good conduct.

This talk about paroling Youtsey is all rot. It is absurd to talk of releasing a confessed criminal, one who coolly admits that he participated in the plot to kill a man, just because two other men have been pardoned. Youtsey says he is guilty and according to his own story he should have been hanged some time since. He is alive and in the penitentiary where he should remain unless he is taken out and hanged. He repeated his confession on last Saturday and cold-bloodedly replied, when asked if he had fired the shot which killed Goebel:

"No, but I would have done it if I had not found somebody else to do it."

And yet many persons here have said that he should be released also, just because Powers and Howard are free.

The dog tax law stands. It has been objectionable but is a good law. Much of the objection arose from ignorance. Some of the mountain counties think, or thought, that they had to pay for sheep killed in the Bluegrass. This was incorrect. The money collected from the dogs goes into a county fund and, if no sheep are killed, then goes to the school fund in the county in which the fund was collected. The law has reduced the number of sheep killed and has gotten rid of a large number of worthless curs.

Taylor and Finley can now come back home. The Governor must pardon them, also, as he says Youtsey alone is guilty. Under the opinion which he gave in the Powers case he cannot refuse to set free both Taylor and Finley. In that opinion the Governor says that he believes Youtsey alone is responsible for the murder and that he fired the shot. That lets Taylor and Finley and all the others out.

The Optimist.

By A. R. D.

Five men stood in the Governor's office last Saturday morning. They were nervous and restless but not excited, for they were newspaper men, and newspaper men do not get excited; it is against the rules. McKensie Todd, the Governor's secretary, was also restless. He was walking backward and forward. The newspaper men were holding telegrams and calling on the long distance telephone. Every telephone in the office was in use. The city daily was connected with the Governor's office by the slender wire and the telegraph editor was waiting there to hear the news.

For the announcement of the decision in the Powers and Howard cases was to come at 8:30 o'clock, and, after long weeks of waiting, the world was to know the Governor's opinion. That he would pardon both men was a foregone conclusion to the newspaper men who have followed the trend of events and they were all of one opinion. They had prepared their papers for the news, warning them that the big story was coming. Mr. Todd was absolutely fair. He gave no correspondent any advantage over the others, and the Governor kept his promise that all should know it at the same time.

It was a dramatic situation. The whole country was waiting to hear the news from that office, for no case has attracted more attention than has the Powers case. The five men in the Governor's office that day were to flash to all parts of the country the news of the pardons, and in dozens of offices the forms were ready to run off extras. Mr. Todd handed out the decision, the correspondents rushed for the telegraph offices and to the telephones, and in a very few minutes the entire country knew that the two men had been freed after eight years confinement.

Now that the Powers and Howard cases are out of the way, the Frankfort correspondents of the daily papers will be able to sleep at night and can breathe freely. They have been on edge for weeks, watching for the Governor's decision, and they have been pestered and worried by their editors, who have wired and telephoned about the case until the correspondents were on the verge of nervous prostration or resignation. One Louisville paper, which had wired its correspondent some scores of times about the cases, sent a telegram several days ago, urging that the correspondent watch for the decision. The correspondent sent back this wire:

"I am watching the Governor's office like a cat watches a mouse hole, and it cannot get away from me."

It was a nuisance to some of the newspaper men, for they were greeted with telegrams when they appeared for breakfast, and found others awaiting them at the dinner table. Those telegraph editors seemed to labor under the impression that the correspondent could not move without directions from the office. The Governor had fixed it so that there were no scoops, and everybody had a square deal. It was known all the time that he would do this, therefore there was no anxiety except in the breasts of the astute telegraph or managing editors who had fits for fear they were not to get the news as soon as some of the other papers.

Capt. Jackson Morris, Assistant Secretary of State, who wrote the pardon for Caleb Powers, is a close personal friend of Powers, and stumped the State with Powers when the latter was a candidate for Secretary of State. Capt. Morris and Powers made forty-two speeches together in the mountains of Kentucky during that campaign, and they have been intimate friends ever since. Capt. Morris was pleased that he had the power and privilege of making out the pardon, and Powers also liked the idea that his friend Morris should write out the pardon. Capt. Morris went to Barbourville with Powers and witnessed the reception which was given the pardoned man the day he was released.

Jim Howard kept his word. Some weeks ago, when it looked like a certainty that Powers and Howard would be pardoned, The Optimist and Luvin Moss, the Enquirer correspondent, went to the penitentiary and had a long talk with Howard. They asked him what he intended doing when he left the prison. He said he had his plans made out, but would not tell what they were until he was released. He promised that he would write out a statement, in his cell, and as soon as he was pardoned would give it to the correspondents. He did write such a statement and when he walked out of the prison he had the statement with him. It had been typewritten by one of the convicts. He started to give the paper to Mr. Moss, when John G. White, who was with Howard, snatched it away and would not let Howard give out the statement. Later, the convict who copied the statement gave out the original and copies were made from it and published in all the papers. Howard was willing to have this done. He went to the Courier-Journal office, in Louisville, Saturday night, and read the statement over, making a few minor alterations in it. The men at the prison say Howard made a good prisoner and that he never gave them a bit of trouble during the two years he was a prisoner.

This is a good fly year. There are millions of flies and this office is so thick with them that they come close to carrying off the paste pot at times. Writing interesting stories and lively news items, when one has to bat flies off one's arms and face, is a hard job. The flies stick so tight. They are just like bulldogs, and hang on with grim and determined tenacity. A fly has six feet, they say, and observation confirms the statement, but when a fly is walking about over one's bare skin it feels like he had fourteen feet and was working each one over time. Scientists have recently discovered that flies are a nuisance. The Optimist discovered that a long time ago. One fly is a nuisance, and ten flies are just ten times as bad. Their crawling, tickling legs irritate one until one wishes the whole fly family was roasting in the bottomless pit of the lower regions. When a man is trying to sleep, one fly can do more to keep him awake than could a boiler factory. That one fly will alight on his nose (the man's nose—not the fly's) and walk about, enjoying a promenade until the man gets fully awake by reason of his efforts to hit the fly. The Optimist shaved the other day. It being hot, he wore few clothes and his feet were bare. The flies crawled around over his toes until he almost cut his throat in his efforts to dislodge the flies.

Good Roads Will Be Subject Of Discussion.

C. M. Hanna, of the State Agricultural Department, has arranged for the holding of a Good Roads convention at Eminence on Friday, July 2, and advocates of the betterment of the roads from every section of Kentucky will be present. At the present time Fayette county, of which Lexington is the county seat, is the only county in the State that can boast of model roads, but other counties have recently taken up the movement for the perfection of such roads and as Henry county is the first to start the work, it was decided to hold the convention at Eminence.

WRITES FINIS

At End Of Goebel Murder
Prosecution.

Governor Puts Whole Blame
On Youtsey.

Latter Admits That He Was In The Plot.

HOWARD GETS JOB IN LOUISVILLE.

"I did not fire the shot, but I would have done so had I been unable to find somebody else to do it."

A sharp-eyed, rather good-looking man, of medium height and build, with nothing special about him, save his eyes, to attract attention, sat in the guards' room at the penitentiary and made this statement. He was Henry Youtsey and he was talking about the murder of William Goebel, for a brief period, during which he lay dying in a room at the Capital Hotel, Governor of Kentucky. The man wore a suit of grey clothes, a standing collar and a blue necktie.
There was nothing about him to indicate that he was a convict in the penitentiary. He had left his work in the bookkeeping department of the Hoge-Montgomery Company. His duties were those of a clerk and were not onerous.

Yet this man, who so coolly admits that he planned the murder of Goebel and who says he is guilty of participation in the murder, is the only man who has been, or who probably ever will be, punished, in this world, for as cowardly a murder as was ever committed. The man who became Governor of the proud State of Kentucky and who took the oath of office after he had been struck by an assassin's bullet, was shot down from the Secretary of State's office, in the daytime, with crowds all around.

And Henry Youtsey alone is to be punished. He is to bear the whole brunt of the crime for Caleb Powers and James Howard are free men today, the Governor's pen having released them from their cells. After eight years in jail or the penitentiary, the two are free to go where they please and do what they please. Gov.

Willson pardoned both men on Saturday and shortly thereafter they were set free. Powers to go to his home in Barbourville and Howard to Louisville, where he is to get a place in the office of the County Clerk.

Gov. Willson wrote finis to the Goebel murder trials on Saturday when he signed his name to a pardon for the men who were charged with carrying into effect and planning the murder of Goebel. The Governor says Youtsey alone is responsible for the murder so the others will be pardoned when the proper time arrives and Youtsey alone will suffer for the murder.

A flag hung in the breeze on Monday at the executive building. It flapped and swung and its folds draped a window in the Secretary of State's office. It was the only flag on the building. By chance or intention, probably by chance, that window, draped by the colors of the United States, the flag of the nation which is the home of the free, was the window from which an assassin fired on William Goebel and shot him down as he walked to the State House to attend the session of the State Senate, of which he was a member. The flag was in honor of the anniversary of the birth of the colors which have been carried in the cause of truth and right and to protect the weak. That flag marked the window from which Goebel was killed and behind which crouched a man with a rifle and with a cool hand and steady nerve and a certain kind of courage.
Yet only two days before two men, one of whom was convicted of being that man with the cool, steady nerve and marksmanship, were released by order of the Governor and Caleb Powers is now free to come back to the office from which the shot was fired and which was his office at the time of the shooting.

The Goebel tragedy is ended and is now a thing of the past. For eight years every possible effort has been made to find the man who fired the shot. Jim Howard was tried and convicted and the Court of Appeals was unable to find any error in the records. Caleb Powers was convicted and the court did find an error which sent the case back for a new trial. He was convicted again and yet again and finally there was a hung jury. But both men are now free.

Job For Howard.

Jim Howard, who was released from the State penitentiary Saturday as the result of a pardon issued by Gov. Augustus E. Willson, has accepted a place in the County Clerk's office of Jefferson county, which was offered him Sunday by the County Clerk, Mark Gebhardt. Mr. Gebhardt left for Chicago Sunday night to attend the Republican National Convention, but Howard appeared in the office Monday morning and was introduced to all the employees. In the afternoon he did not return to the office until late. He will familiarize himself with the work at once. He will likely succeed William Durbeck, who was asked to resign several days ago.
It will not be known to what department he will be assigned until the County Clerk returns from Chicago.
In the meantime Howard will familiarize himself with the office.

Smashes Window To Gratify His Thirst.

UNKNOWN PERSON STEALS
FOUR QUARTS OF WHISKY
FROM W. A. HOWARD.

With a horrible and gnawing thirst for strong drink, a person, probably a man, pulled off a daring burglary in Frankfort, the first of the week.
The man threw a brick through the front window of W. A. Howard's store, on St. Clair street, near the bridge, and grabbed four quarts of Old Taylor. Presumably he then vamooed at a rapid rate and escaped to drink his whisky and, kill that thirst. The window was found broken when the policeman on that beat made his rounds and the only thing missing from the store was the whisky. It is thought that some man, with a dry and parched throat, passed by, and seeing the whisky, which was in the window, decided he would have to have a drink.

the fair this year, provided plans recently set on foot by J. W. New-throughout this and adjoining States numbering between 30,000 and 50,000 people, likely will attend.

The decision of members of the Society of Equity to attend the fair in a body was reached after due deliberation, following speeches at Winchester several days ago by Secretary Newman, Sam P. Jones, President of the Commercial Bank and Trust Company and several other Louisville business men. During the past few days notices have been sent out by the officers of the Society of Equity, asking all of the tobacco growers throughout Kentucky and the other States, as well as society members in other lines of business, to visit the fair on the date set apart for them.

What's in a Name?

There's nothing in a name, 'tis said.
I hold quite differently,
For they with certain things are wed
In my phrenology.
Take you, for instance, just the name
Of maids you never saw,
And see if they are quite the same,
The pictures that they draw.

You've heard of Bella Donna. Say,
What think you of her grace?
Now, just a moment, turn this way,
And Sal E. Ratus face.
Well—"honest injun"—did you see
No difference in the pattern,
Or was the one a fresh fairy,
The other quite a slattern?

WILLSON WINS

Fight Against Cutting Down
South's Representation.

Governor of Kentucky Wins Remarkable Victory.

Personality Lands His Side
Victor in Contest.

CONVENTION WON OVER AT LAST.

In the biggest fight, considering its importance and the future of the Republican party and the country in general, that has come before a National Convention in many years, Gov. Augustus E. Willson, of Kentucky, won a victory as the leader of the forces opposed to cutting down the representation of the South. Opposed by the men who are the recognized leaders of the party in the National Congress and in its internal affairs, Gov. Willson took up the fight and by splendid leadership and an eloquent speech he won enough votes to defeat the minority report of the committee on rules by 506 to 471.

It was a tremendous personal victory for the Governor of Kentucky and made him a foremost figure in the National councils of the Republican party. The effect of the adoption of the minority report would have been so far-reaching that no man present could have ventured a prediction of the outcome. Certainly, as was announced by the speaker of the minority report, it would have meant that the Republican party was committed to the policy of cutting the representation of the Southern States in the lower house of Congress. That it would have become a leading issue in the approaching presidential campaign is certain, and that it would have been one of the strongest arguments for the defeat of the Republican ticket is not to be denied.

For a time after the minority report of the committee had been presented by Representative James F. Burke, of Pennsylvania, it appeared certain that the proposition to reduce the representation of the South would be accepted by the convention. State after State whose representatives had not signed the minority report in committee arose and asked the chair to permit the name of the committee to be added. The suggestion seemed to have taken the convention by storm and the party leaders soon realized that a crisis in the history of the Republican party had been reached. Mr. Burke made the first speech in favor of the minority report, which recommended that each State be given four delegates-at-large and one delegate for each 10,000 Republican votes cast at the preceding National election. Flushed with the belief that his suggestion would carry following the rallying of the States of New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin, Massachusetts and Utah to his standard, Mr. Burke made a strong plea for his resolution. He based his argument on the ground that the Republican party stood for a square deal and said that the vote of one delegate from Mississippi represented less than 200 Republican voters, while the vote of a delegate from New York represented 10,000 Republican voters. He elaborated this idea, and was cheered again and again by the delegates favoring his resolution.

FRANKFORT MEN GET GOOD PLACES.

George Barnes Secretary of the Delegation.

Ed. Lane Member of Committee on Rules.

KENTUCKY DELEGATION AT CHICAGO.

Notwithstanding the fact that the Kentucky delegation to the National Republican Convention is badly divided on some points, the first meeting held in the delegation's headquarters at the Stratford Hotel was entirely harmonious. Richard P. Earnst set the example by nominating Gov. Augustus E. Willson as chairman of the delegation, and this was quickly followed suit by seconding the nomination. Gov. Willson, in turn wore his most "neighborly" manner and presided over the remainder of the session in his most affable manner.

George L. Barnes, of Frankfort, was chosen secretary of the delegation by unanimous vote. The Taft men then took advantage of their strength to put one of their leaders, William Lochman, of Maysville, forward as the representative on the Credentials Committee. His election, as were all of the others during the afternoon, was unanimous. R. W. Hunter, a Taft man, from the Second District, was made vice chairman of the delegation. J. T. Dore, of Bowling Green, was chosen for the Committee on Permanent Organization.

Col. Morris B. Belknap nominated William Marshall Bullitt for member of the Committee on Resolutions, and the Louisville Taft leader had the privilege of signing his name to the platform as approved by President Roosevelt.

Judge A. R. Burnam, of Richmond, was chosen to represent Kentucky on the committee to notify the Presidential nominee, and T. Jackson, of Lebanon, was nominated by John P. Haswell, Jr., and elected to membership in the committee to notify the Vice Presidential nominee.

The colored brother was given recognition when Mr. Cochran arose and said he believed the colored delegate should have some of the honors and proposed E. W. Lane, of Frankfort, for membership on the Committee on Rules and order of Business. Lane was promptly elected.

Busy Term Of Court
Ends On Saturday.

The adjournment this year is about the usual time for the summer vacation, and no time is to be wasted. The court will meet again in September, and it is thought that by the end of the next term the Judges will be up with their work.

DEMOCRATIC RALLY.

Final arrangements are being completed for the trip to the Democratic Convention of the Kentucky delegation. The Kentucky headquarters will be at the Brown Palace Hotel in Denver. An entire floor has been reserved and will be the home, not only of the Kentucky delegation, but the nucleus of action both before and during the convention. Reservations have been made by Mr. Woodson not only at the Brown Palace Hotel, but at the Albany Hotel and the Vongohren Hotel. At the latter hotel most of the delegates unaccompanied by their wives will in all probability stop. It is a stag hotel, Mr. Woodson said last night that in anticipation of the large number of people from the State who would be anxious to attend the convention, he had made the reservations and that hotel accommodations should be secured from him within the next few days.

Mr. Woodson urged all possible haste in writing to him by those anxious for hotel rooms as it would be impossible for him to hold the tentative reservations a great while longer. Mr. Woodson was of the opinion that the majority of the men accompanied by their families would stop at the Albany Hotel or the Brown Palace. He said that from present indications Kentucky would be one of the best represented States at the convention.

A special train has been arranged for to carry the Kentucky delegates and others attending the convention to Denver. It will be made up in Louisville and run through solid to Denver. The special will leave Louisville the night of July 3 over the L. & N. and St. L. for St. Louis, from which place it will travel over the Missouri Pacific to Omaha, thence over the Rock Island to the convention city, arriving there at noon on July 5. The Old Guard Bryan Marching Club and other organizations will leave about the same over the Monon for the convention.

May Have To Call
An Extra Session.

STATE TREASURY IN DEPLETED CONDITION AND RELIEF IS NECESSARY.

With the treasury in a depleted condition and probably lower in funds than ever before, except in 1896, it may be necessary to call an extra session of the Legislature to provide money with which to run the departments of the State government. Capt. Ed. Farley, State Treasurer, in a letter, which he wrote to the jailer of Jason county, says that every effort is being made to avoid the necessity of an extra session. In case an extra session is called it would be called for the same purpose as was the extra session of 1896, when interest-bearing warrants were authorized. This is a way to meet the difficulties which are presented, and it may be that Gov. Willson will call the extra session, probably in the winter.

Lawrenceburg To Have Public Building Soon.

During the coming month a large number of bids will be opened at the office of the Supervising Architect for sites and buildings under the public buildings act that was passed during the closing days of the last session of Congress. In this respect the record has been broken, for never before in such a short space of time has the Treasury Department so promptly advertised several hundred different propositions of this kind.

The places in Kentucky for which money has lately been appropriated for either site or building or both, and for which bids will be opened during the coming month, are Bardonia, Cynthiana, Hopkinsville, Lawrenceburg, Mount Sterling, Somerset, Lebanon and Winchester.

W. R. Ward, of Dyersburg, Tenn., writes: "This is to certify that I have used Foley's Orino Laxative for chronic constipation, and it has proven without a doubt to be a thorough practical remedy for this trouble, and it is with pleasure I offer my conscientious reference."

ELECT M'KEE

President of Kentucky Educational Association.

Teachers Leave Frankfort
After Busy Session.

On Record For Compulsory Education Act.

HONOR FOR MRS. JENNIE CHINN.

Frankfort landed the presidency of the Kentucky Educational Association, Prof. H. C. McKee, Superintendent of the Frankfort City Schools, being elected without opposition. The election of officers brought to a close the three days sessions of the association, and the several hundred teachers who have been in Frankfort for three days left town rapidly. Prof. McKee made a good impression on the visitors and his record was so good here that it was thought he was exactly the man for the place at the head of the educational movement in Kentucky.

Before adjourning the association went on record as favoring compulsory education laws for the country as the cities, and also urged the Legislature to pass a bill enlarging the State Board of Education and increasing its powers. The following officers were elected:

President—H. C. McKee, of Frankfort.

First Vice President—George W. Chapman, of Paris.

Second Vice President—Edmund Wroe, of Cloverport.

Third Vice President—Miss Mamie Miller, of Taylorsville.

Treasurer—W. C. Bell, of Owensboro.

The secretary is chosen for a three-year term, and Secretary T. W. Vinson has still another year to serve.

Money and then more money is the greatest need of educational work in Kentucky, according to the Rev. Dr. Frederick W. Hinit, president of Central University, who delivered the principal address before the Kentucky Educational Association at its sessions Wednesday. Dr. Hinit said that the purse strings would have to be opened and more money raised in some way for higher education, which is the greatest need in Kentucky now. He said that even if the tax rate is increased it will be money well spent if the standard can be raised and the children of the State educated as they should be.

He gave facts and figures to show that Kentucky is away behind other States in high school work, and he said this evil can not be remedied except by the expenditure of more money than is now allowed. The last Legislature, he said, had been very liberal, but what is needed are more high schools, so that every county and city in the State can have a high school.

The teachers quit work Wednesday afternoon and had a reception at the Country Club, where they were entertained by the Business Men's Club of Frankfort. They were given a trolley ride over the city and visited all the points of interest, including the new capitol.

The department of child study held an interesting meeting Thursday morning in the chapel of the Episcopal church, which was prettily decorated. The Sunbonnet Babies and the Overall Boys, children in the primary departments, and pupils in Miss Rebecca Johnson's class gave a recital and song, as a demonstration of how to train children in the first grade. Mrs. R. D. Allen, principal of the free kindergarten, of Louisville, delivered an address on "Practical Lines of Child Study for the Average Teacher," telling the teachers how best to obtain results in teaching small children. Patience was the chief requisite, she said.

At the close of the regular program Mrs. Jennie Chinn was elected president of the department. Mrs. Chinn has devoted much time to this work and was considered as eminently deserving this honor.

WILL FIGHT

Dog Tax Law In The Next
General Assembly.

Even Court of Appeals Split
Over Statute.

Upholding Act Does
Not End It.

SHEEP MEN NOW FEELING GOOD.

Even the Court of Appeals split over the dog tax law. That statute has caused more fights and been more praised and damned than any other law on the books. The law has been held responsible for the election of Gov. Willson and how many county officials and members of the Legislature it has defeated is beyond computation. Now the Court of Appeals comes along, and, in deciding an appeal from Carter county, by a divided court, holds that the law is constitutional and good. As the last Legislature refused to repeal the law and as the court of last resort has held it good, owners of dogs must pay taxes on them and the fight to get rid of the statute will be carried to the next General Assembly, where the battle will be waged fiercely again. The sheep men are pleased. The dog men are not.

The dog law was always a hoodoo for the man who introduced it in a regular flood of bills repealing the Legislature, and the author of it never came back to the Legislature, being defeated by the people of his county. Ed. Croan, of Bullitt county, braved the anger of his constituents and pushed the dog tax law through by swapping his vote on any and all propositions.

The Governor signed the bill and it became a law. During the last campaign for Governor the dog law was the one live and important issue, and both the Republicans and Democrats were committed to its defeat. Then the Legislature met and there was objectionable law. But, on the other side, were several thousands of men who raise sheep and who were just as heartily in favor of the law as the others were opposed to it. They came to Frankfort and even the Senatorial deadlock paled into insignificance beside the dog tax law.

The sheep men won but they are going to have another fight on their hands at the next session and if the law is not repealed at that time there will be something doing for some of the members. When the members of the Legislature start out for re-election they will be asked how they voted on the bill to repeal the dog tax law and they must answer right or they will stand a poor chance of coming back.

THE BUSINESS MEN'S LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY

Was organized by business men upon a business basis, not for personal profit, but for the purpose of insuring their own lives and the lives of such other men as their doctor would say were first-class risks. The company therefore belongs to the men that are insured in it, which makes it co-operative.

The cardinal principle of the company is to furnish protection at the lowest possible cost commensurate with absolute safety. Therefore the company's rates are based on the same mortality tables—the American Experience—that all the old-line companies use.

Investigation and experience has proven that the mortality fund as accumulated and used by the old-line companies is twenty per cent. more than has been necessary to meet all death claims in a period of over a century of insurance business.

Not in a single instance have any of the old line companies ever drawn on their reserve or surplus to pay death losses. Knowing this to be an indisputable fact, the organizers of the Business Men's Life determined to save and invest, out of each premium, exactly the same Mortality Fund that the old line companies do, thereby putting the Business Men's Life on a par with them as to their ability to meet death losses.

Investigation has also proven that old line surplus and reserves are millions upon millions in excess of any need whatever. The policy-holders contributed these millions.

The Business Men's Life's organizers have deemed it wise to accumulate a legitimate reserve, and therefore part of every premium, over and above the mortality fund, will go to a

A first-class actuary has assured the organizers of this company that the amount so set aside for this purpose will be amply sufficient for any extraordinary condition that may possibly arise.

The company's plan as outlined insures absolute stability of rates, and it is a satisfaction to know just what one is expected to pay each quarter, semi-annually or annually, and to have the assurance that, unlike fraternal orders, the rate is permanent. J. S. Darnell, District Manager.

The opinion expressed in Lexington at the annual meeting of the Central Kentucky Millers' Association was that the wheat crop in Kentucky and throughout the country is short this year, and that high prices for the crop will prevail. It was stated by members of the association that old wheat is now quoted at 92 cents, and the market for the new crop is expected to open at about 70 cents. Several crops in this county have already been engaged at from 85 to 90 cents.
